My principle working life in the United Kingdom was spent with Natocars Ltd., Bridgwater, from 1977 to 1995. The company supplied and sold new cars to diplomats and military personnel of Our Majesty. I started as the main receptionist, then I joined the motor insurance department and finally I was selected to be part of the sales team where I was given total responsibility and control of my orders. I cared for my own clients from the initial enquiries through to greeting them with their new cars. I ordered cars from the factories, arranged deliveries abroad and dealt with finance and insurance as required. I had to be accurate and responsible in every part of my role.

EDUCATION

I completed school in 1976 with qualifications in CSE and GCSE subjects. I went on to college and qualified as a secretary, obtaining various RSA certifications.

OTHER INFORMATION

I consider myself to be a loyal, reliable and punctual person. In my free time, I like to write and I have published my first romance, Tuscany- a novel, renamed Headstrong in Tuscany. I'm currently writing my second book, this time, the protagonist is in her sixties. I have also written travel articles. As well as writing, I enjoy walking our beautiful dog we adopted.
